

PEOPLE WILL WANT TO GO OUT INTO THE WORLD AGAIN

People will start leaving the comfort of their homes again and go traveling

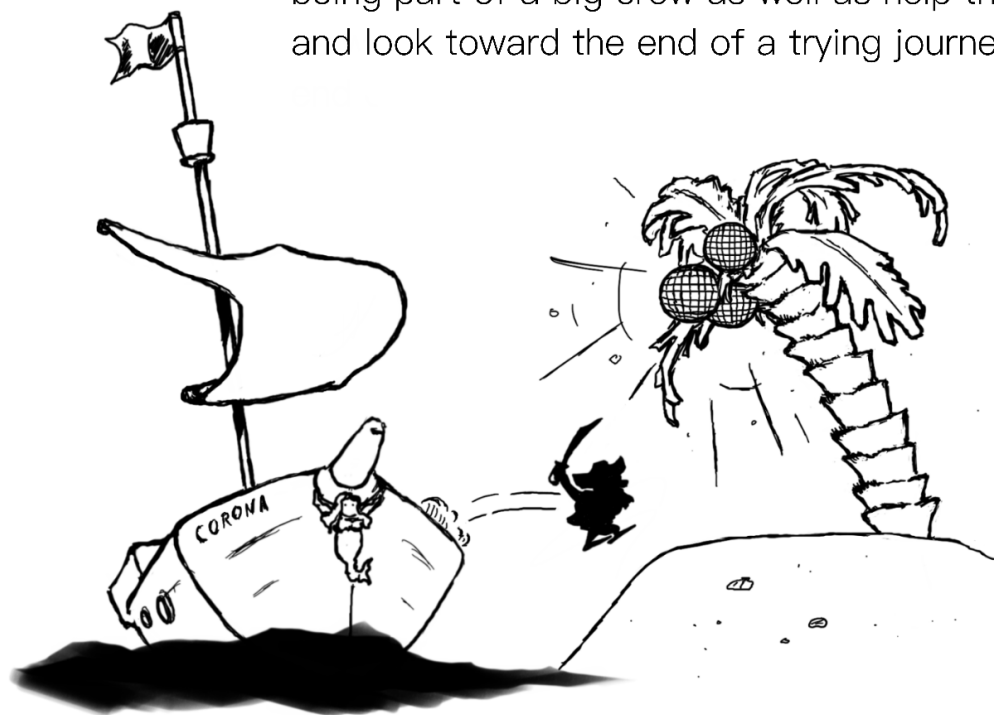

Many Corona trends, like doing chores in your own home and working on improving yourself, will see a decrease

Now that people can go back to posting pictures of their travels on their Instagram, there is no more need for banana bread

POPULAR MUSIC WILL CHANGE

The sudden popularity of sea shanties that we saw during Corona times has been explained with a desire for companionship among the people

Overcoming Corona was in many ways a question of discipline and solidarity with others. These songs can give the feeling of being part of a big crew as well as help the listener to stay strong and look toward the end of a trying journey

Now that all goes out the window as people are regaining their rights

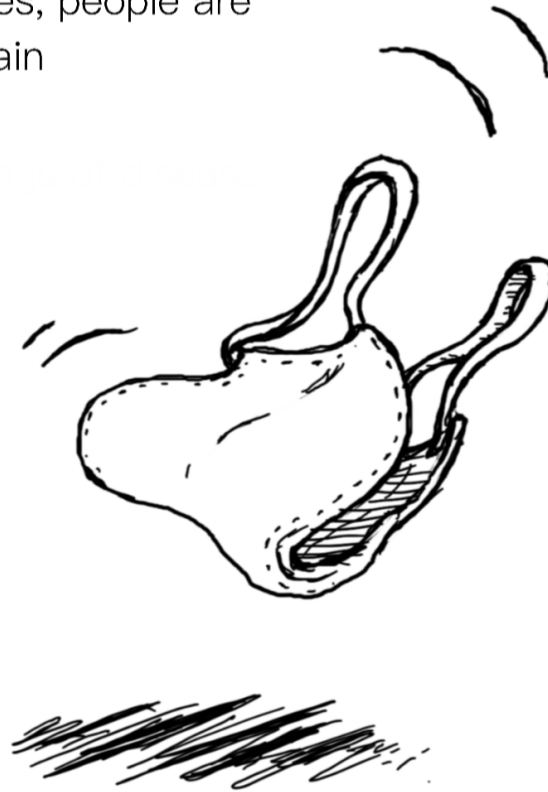

Life is starting to feel easier and individualism and fun are becoming the focus again

Perhaps party music will be popular now

PEOPLE WILL FORGET EVERYTHING THEY LEARNED

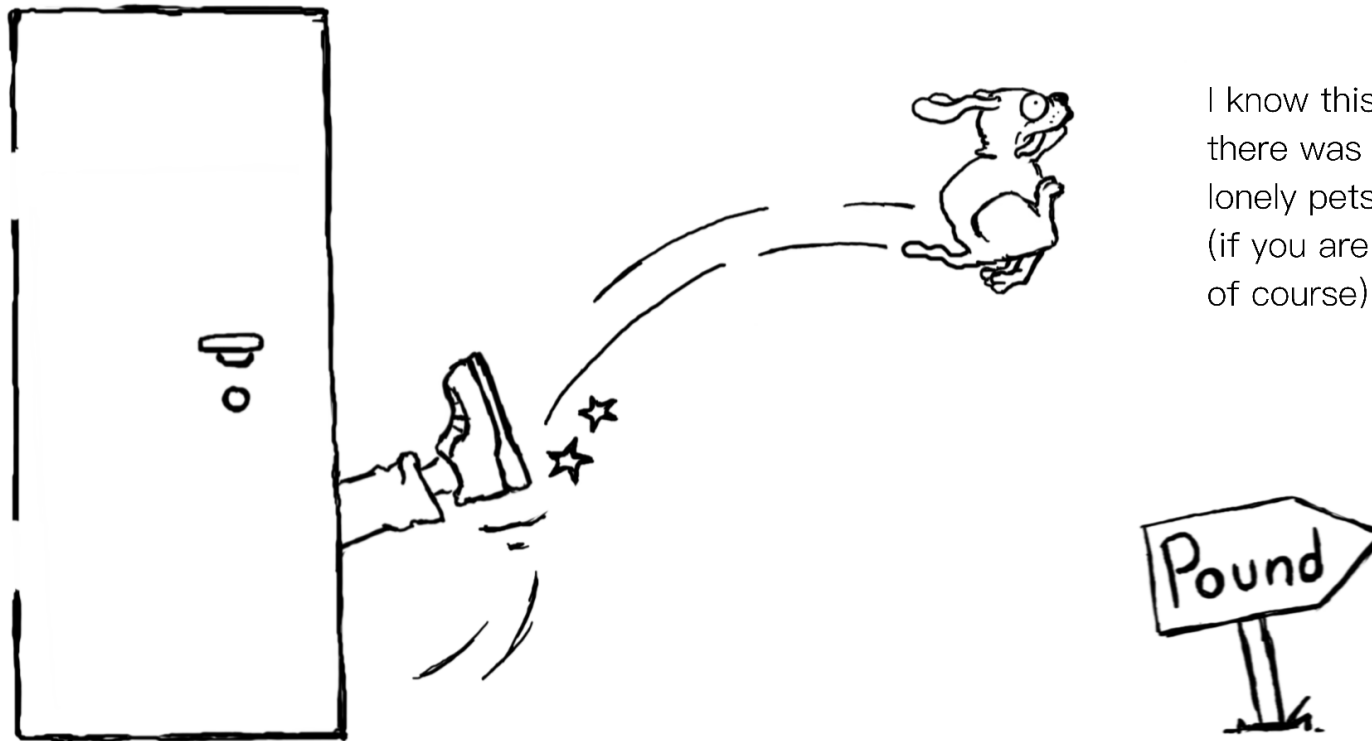

After the long struggle of keeping your distance, disinfecting your hands and wearing a mask in crowded places, people are ecstatic as they're finally allowed not to care again

This reaction leads to further spreadings of disease

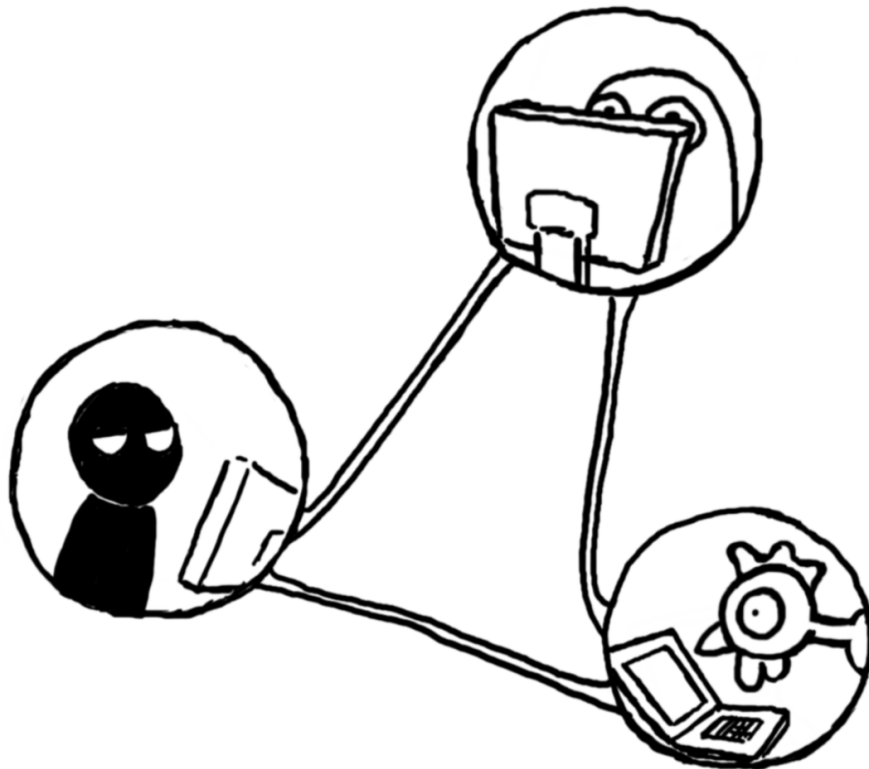

PETS WILL BE ABANDONDED

Due to Corona isolation, people started buying pets for companionship without thinking about the future
Many animals will be dropped and abandoned like old fads as soon as people aren't confined to their homes anymore

I know this is a sad one, but if there was ever a time to adopt lonely pets, then it is now (if you are a responsible owner of course)

THERE WILL BE EVEN MORE BENEFITS THROUGH ONLINE TECHNOLOGY

With less need for distancing, things like home office will see an overall decrease

However, technological advances and new ideas that have blossomed during Corona times will still be there

With people being more used to online communication, many things will become easier now. One could say that Corona has pushed the modernization of society
